There Has Been No Delay Nor Any Ces sation of Labor, and the Company

A telegram from New Orleans to the New ork Tribune of Monday said that the "Er-anger syndicate" had discontinued payments on construction because of alleged speculation in contracts, and work was sus-sended. The New York Banker and Broker ays, in response: "In the first place, there no 'Erlanger syndicate,' but the Alabama, New Orleans, Texas and Pacific Junction Railway Company, limited, of London, con-trol the roads mentioned in the telegram, and Mr. John Scott is their local manager. ere has been no delay in the payment o There has been no delay in the payment of drafts at any time, with the exception of two or three days waiting for proper papers. The construction account of last month has been paid, and the financial agents in this city say there is positively no foundation for the charges in the Tribuna telegram."

Another telegram from New Orleans says: "Current reports recently published relative to the Erlanger syndicate were denied by Gen. John Glynn, auditor of the New Orleans and Northeastern railway. Gen. Glynn says Nearly all the horses due here except of work on his road, and the efforts were being made to semore laborers in order to push the road rapidly to completion. The road is built by contract, and the contractors comptly paid each month. As to the are promptly paid each month. As to the statement that large profits are made from the company on material and supplies, Gen. Glynn says this is refuted by the fact that all contracts are let to the lowest bidder. Relative to the charge that the laborers on the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Texas railway have not been paid in three months, Gen. Glynn says it is equally absurd. Under the late law the laborers could compel payment at any time. The company does not treat with the laborers. They are employed by the contractors. The latter are promptly paid by the syndicate, and he does not believe that they have failed to pay their workmen, more especially as the laborers could enforce payment at any time.

Concerning the Death of Henry James on Shelby Street.

Shelby street Wednesday evening, an account of which was published in the APPEA Thursday morning, very strongly suggesthat the killing was accidential and no willful suicide. In conversation with M. Moore, his brother-in-law by marriage w James's sister, the APPEAL learns that de ing the past two or three weeks he has been a little cranky on the subject of self-destru tion. A week or so ago ne went to a dri gist on Main street and purchased a quar of rat poison, requesting the drug merch great number of rats. He package home, and showing it to having declared his intention of killinhimself with it. He had said so to quently to her that he would commit suicide.

and as often failed to carry out his threat that she paid no attention to him. A sho time afterward he came into the room wit goblet or cup of water, into which he obred some white powder from a package similar to the one containing the rat pot-drank it down, and commerced a strice antics that so alarmed his wife that she aroused the neighborhood with her screams Mr. Moore and Mr. Sullivan, the latter also Mr. Moore and Mr. Sullivan, the latter also James's brother-in-law, "worked" with him several hours trying to "bring him round," during which the package of rat poison, intact and unbroken, was discovered, which convinced them that James had been playing 'possum. Last Sunday he began his tantrums again, and Moore and Sullivan tantrums again, and Moore and Sullivan antrums again, and Moore and Sainva suggested to him to join them in a skiff-rid scross the river, thinking they would test hi intention of destroying himself by givin him an opportunity to drown himself if h wanted to—their object, of course, being, if he made the attempt, to rescue him, and adopt such measures as would prevent the man from really killing himself. The trip across the river was made, but James made no effort towar availing himself of the opportunity afforded to quit this mournful vale. While on the Arkansas side the two brothers-in-law too occasion to lecture James about his fool conduct, pointing out the trouble he was giving his young wife—to whom he had bee married to but about six weeks—and th annoyance he was giving his sisters, Mo Moore and Mrs. Sullivan. He gave evidence of repentance and promised to behave his self, and the party returned to this side the river. Nothing more was thought about the matter until Wednesday evening, between 5 and 6 o'clock, when he went into Su livan's shop with a pistol in his hand, flour ishing it about in a reckless manner. He continued this conduct but a moment or two when he suddenly threw the pistol up to hi head, exclaiming "Well, boys, here she goes!" pulled the trigger, discharging the contents of the pistol into his brain, causing almost instant death Mr. Moore says he does not be lieve James intended to kill himrelf, but

FINE PLANTATION ON DEER CREEK, LYING about seven miles from Greenville, in Washinston county, Miss. The tract contains about 1000 acres of the finest land, about 400 acres of which is in a state of good cultivation; good tensus houses, nice country residence, in a good neighborhood. There is now on the place a crop of corn and cotton which will be sold with it, if desired: also, all the stock. This is one of the most desirable places in the vicinity of Greenville, and will be sold at a bargain, as the owner having landed interest in Tensa desires to remove there. The place is high and above any ordinary overflow; 200 acres was above the high water of this year. There is also on the place a good lot of tenants, sufficient to cultivate it. For terms, etc., apply to the undersigued on the premises.
